Coaching History

Varsity Coach, Program Director – Alpharetta High School

Personal

Kathryn Houghton is a former Fulton County student; she graduated from Centennial High School in 2001. While attending Centennial High School she played volleyball for four years and traveled on a local Junior Olympic team. After graduating high school Kathryn attended Georgia State University, in August of 2004 she received her Bachelor's degree in History and in August of 2006, she received her Masters in Education.

Coach Houghton began her teaching and coaching career at Alpharetta High School in August 2006. Within her first year there, she was the JV Volleyball Coach. In November 2006, she was hired as Varsity Volleyball Coach. Since then, the coaching staff and players have led the team to their best season in school history. Coach Houghton is very excited to see the team continue to develop.
